Reflections on 'Perceptions of Leadership Through a Montessori Lens'

Have you ever wondered how leadership can be reimaged through the Montessori philosophy?

Imagine a world where leadership is defined by empathy, inclusivity, and deep understanding of individual strengths and potentials -

This is precisely the vision we explored during our enlightening, free, online panel session this month, filled with eye-opening discussion, inspiring stories, and practical insights.

Our free post-panel Network resource (linked below) offers a short video of highlights from the panel; key questions which inspired reflection on how we define and understand leadership, and an overview of key takeaways from the event. Dive in and discover how the Montessori approach can revolutionise not only classrooms, but also the very essence of leadership!

The Network resource begins: "The Montessori philosophy and pedagogy has been around for more than 100 years, with the premise of "follow the child" at its core. While that principle is widely recognised, quoted and adhered to, it is only part of what Maria Montessori said when she spoke to students on January 6th, 1942. Her exact words were "...follow the child as his leader".

Build stronger teams with Montessori Training

Unlock the secret to solving recruitment challenges with specialised training!

Since launching our 70 for 70th programme, we've been talking to settings across the globe – eager to establish sustainable Montessori training that will have meaningful impact on both teams and children's' lives. We've discussed how our training could assist them with recruitment issues and build stronger teams that feel valued, fulfilled and settled. Other conversations have focused on the desire to assist qualified practitioners and graduates in their local areas looking to specialise in Montessori and develop further qualifications. We've also heard from established training providers, wanting to broaden their offering by adding MCI courses to their current portfolio.

This intense interest has reconfirmed that Montessori training is still as relevant and in demand today as it's always been. Why not consider joining us?

Email us to arrange an informal call to discuss your Host Centre journey approval@montessori.org.uk.

Hear from one of our established Host Centre settings already successfully offering MCI courses, read about our 70 for 70th drive for 70 Host Centres in our 70th year, and find out about our celebratory special offer for new applicants. Click 'READ MORE' below.
