Montessori – our principles and practices...

Dr Maria Montessori developed an educational method that places the child at the centre of the learning process. Our approach echoes this and we aim to foster joy in learning; we enhance analytical, expansive thinking, nurturing creative, resilient and confident individuals ready to face the 21st century. We are improving outcomes across education, health, economy and social equity through our modern approach to high-quality, sustainable Montessori learning, in and beyond the classroom.

The main aim of Montessori education is to help each individual child reach their full potential in an environment specifically prepared to meet the child's needs and interests. Adults and children are an integral part of this nurturing environment designed to facilitate the Montessori motto of 'following the child'. By allowing children to take the lead and providing an environment that addresses their holistic needs, the Montessori approach naturally fosters learning, creativity, independence, and problem-solving.

The success of the Montessori method has reached almost every corner of the world, and the Montessori classroom is seen as one of the most culturally responsive learning environments. As a relevant and flexible learning pedagogy, Montessori retains clear focus on a series of Key Fundamentals that secure the Montessori Approach in practice – these are shared and commonly acknowledged tenets:

- Supporting the individual as an active learner
- Respecting the inner life of the learner
- Trusting an individual's inner motivation
- Enabling and providing freedom within limits
- Encouraging inner discipline

Reflection upon these fundamentals enables open and engaged consideration of the most appropriate actions for educators as they accompany learners in their learning and development experiences.
